In response to queries about adapting the theme “Fly Your Flag for the Festival” to an artwork, the dictionary definition is: fly the flag, show that you are proud of your country, or that you support a particular cause.

For the Orange Festival organisers, “For the Festival” is referring to the Orange Festival Parade, where floats are decorated accordingly.

For an artwork, the definition of being “proud of your country or that you support a particular cause” broadens the scope significantly. For example, if you are passionate about a cause, an event or even a hobby, this could form the basis of an artwork.

It will be useful if you could add an artist statement explaining how your chosen subject for the artwork fulfils the brief.
